should be remitted for postage.

The competition is only just beginning. There is nothing difficult about it. In fact, it is so easy that most any one can sole the pictures correctly. All that one need do is to name the towns and cities that are represented by the puzzle pictures each day. Three illustrations are published daily, and each represents the one part of the country know as much about the towns and cities as do those who live in another. Thus The Tribune inaugurates a contest that is remarkable in its wide scope of opportunity.

The excellence of the prizes is undeniable. There are names that are to be depicted in the competition, will be ready soon. It will be well printed and neatly bound.

The price will be 23 cents at the office of The Tribune or 30 cents by mail. It will be completed within a very few days. Orders may be sent in for it now, and they will be filled promptly when the catalogue is ready.

Don't hesitate to enter because of doubt as to your ability to solve the pictures. The towns and cities to be shown throughout the entire period of the contest will be so plainly portrayed that every one should be able to identify them

The rules have been carefully drawn along very broad lines and cannot fail to meet with the approval of every one. Pictures need not be sent with the snswers, but where contestants desire to do so there will be no objection.

A good plan would be to cut out the coupon, which appears on page 2 of the Tribune every day, and paste or pin it to the puzzle pictures of that date and number, to be filled out later in the spaces allotted for the answers. To avoid any error contestants should be careful to give the name of the state with each towns and citles answer. Begin solving the puzzle pictures every morning. They will brighten the whole day for you and, at the same time, prove a piecsant and fascinating diversion.

Mr. Jones, having a more or less idle af ternoon in prospect, decided that he might well drop in on his old acquaintance, Sonny," at the latter's new place of business, No. 116 University Place. Being a great stickler for etiquette, he decided to drop in on Magistrate McAdoo for a few properly made out visiting cards before roing to "Sonny's."

Nattily attired in sack suit and straw hat. Mr. Jones made his appearance at the psychological moment, not to speak of the nick o' time. He reached Mr. Smith's door just as the latter was waving a fond adieu to a departing guest. The visitor lost no time in entering, and seeing no one else to hand a card to proffered one to Mr. Smith himself.

Alas! Mr. Smith did not recognize his old acquaintance, for which grievous mistake he later apologized. In truth, Mr. Smith was holding an at home and had numerous other guests to play host to. It is not, therefore, much cause for wonderment that he grabbed his unrecognized friend by the neck and started to "muss" him up. But seeing that Mr. Jones had brought numerous other friends with him, Mr. Smith, 'tis said, made a hasty dash for a haven known to the vulgar as "the getaway door." With great dexterity he drew -a key. Alas, alack! 'Twas the wrong one. Hence the chuckles.
